COURSE DESCRIPTION

This multidisciplinary course explores the structural evolution of the Federal Republic of Germany's role in the world since the end of World War II to the current Zeitenwende. Through an interactive approach, students will be able to contextualize contemporary German foreign policy challenges from their geographic, material, and ideational roots. Furthermore, course activities and assignments are tailored to assist students in becoming foreign policy practitioners fully capable of applying national security decision theories. The curriculum threads together historical cases, international relations scholarship, and security studies in order to provide a holistic understanding of all the constituent parts influencing Germany's external posture. Why is contemporary Germany often referred to as a reluctant leader? What are the unique attributes of German-style foreign policy that are currently undergoing reconsideration by the incumbent Ampelkoalition? A critical appraisal of topics such as the institutions shaping elite policy-making, the legacy of the Cold War and reunification, relations with the European Union, and the triangulation between the great powers of the United States, Russia and China offers students the necessary tools to answer these core questions. The complementary emphasis on professional development will allow participants to garner practical skills through simulations, seminar debates, and presentations.

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Identify and assess the evolving trends in German National Security policy while incorporating the appropriate historical, economic and political frameworks;
- Evaluate the German National Security decision-making process, the main stakeholders involved in the bureaucracy and the role civil-society plays as a central pillar of its democracy;
- Analyze and debate how the cotemporary challenges to contested power on the European continent intersect with Germany's strategic security and economic imperatives;
- Gain key skills necessary to operate as an effective foreign policy practitioner through simulations and verbal and written exercises.
